An important Leigh Bowery triple collared shirt, circa 1985, of semi-circular bat-wing shape, the pink and white hound's tooth-checked cotton edged in peach acetate and white nylon lace, the exaggerated pointed central collar with three Chanel buttons to fasten, to further 'collar' openings at the shoulders, with long sleeves, knitted cuffs, diagonal pocket vents below the empire-line frill to the chest

Marc was photographed wearing this shirt inside the Taboo club in 'The Encyclopaedia of the Eighties - a Decade of I/Deas'.
